

Two new recommendations from the Public Health Agency of Sweden.

1. You can visit retirement homes again.

2. All adults should stay at home if any member of the family has Corona. These are two new recommendations from the Public Health Agency of Sweden.

All adults shall stay at home if one is sick.

The one who has symptoms should get tested for Corona (covid-19). All who lives with the person, If the person Is infected, should stay at home from work.

The doctor who is responsible for the test (covid-19 test) will contact all who live together and will tell them what to do (rules of conduct). Then the doctor will write you a certificate.

The ones who have work and stay home could get wage compensation. The doctor's certificate is needed to get compensation.

If you do a self-test and you do not see a doctor, there is still a responsible doctor for your test. It is that doctor who will call. You will then get all recommendations.

Region Kalmar län is responsible for the healthcare in the region and want you to order self-tests from the web page 1177.se. Then you need Bank-ID. (If you don't have a Bank-ID you can call your health center instead.)

Healthy children that is attending preschool or elementary school – year 1-9 – should not stay at home. The one who is symptom free can leave and pick up the children and then go home again.

Happy news – you can now visit retirement homes

It has been a hard time for many elderly since they haven't been able to see their relatives and friends. But from 1 October you can visit retirement homes again.

Since there are still risks for elderly you must be very careful and cautious. You must follow certain rules. You first call the retirement home and ask what rules applies. It can differ between different retirement homes.

”The whole person has to feel good, both physical and mental”, said Anders Tegnell, who is state epidemiologist at the Public Health Agency of Sweden. “That is why people have to be able to see each other again.”

Since the pandemic started, researchers and others have learned a lot about security and safety. Therefore, Sweden can take this step. But it is important that everyone takes responsibility and follow the recommendations.
